

Christoph von der Malsburg's Biography

Christoph von der Malsburg studied physics with a PhD in elementary particle physics at CERN, Geneva, converted to neuroscience at a Max-Planck-Institute in Göttingen, Germany, held faculty positions in computer science at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles and, overlapping, in systems neurophysics at Ruhr-University Bochum, Germany. Since 2007 he has been Senior Fellow (now emeritus) at Frankfurt Institute for Advanced Studies and is, since 2020, affiliated to the Institute for Neuroinformatics at University/ETH Zurich as well to the Center for Artificial Intelligence of ZHAW School of Engineering, Winterthur, Switzerland.

He received several international awards and has founded two successful companies.